

Cox Hits Prohibition and Tariff in Opening Talk

Former Governor, Entering Democratic Campaign at Lima Rally, Also Finds Fault with State Administration's Prohibition Policy.

By The Associated Press
LIMA, O., Oct. 21.—Former Governor James M. Cox stepped into the Ohio political campaign last night with denunciations of national prohibition and the tariff and laid blame for the Easter Monday penitentiary disaster at the door of the Cooper administration.

Cox spoke in the interest of the candidacies of Robert J. Bulkley of Cleveland, Democratic senatorial nominee, and George White of Marietta, his running mate for governor. Bulkley and White were on the platform, but did not speak.

The former governor praised the stand of Bulkley, who advocates repeal of the 18th amendment and return to the status of liquor traffic control, and asserted that "if the men and women of Ohio who agree in conviction with Bulkley vote for him, he will have one of the largest pluralities in our history."

Opposed to Saloon
But while charging that national prohibition is a failure that brought "corrupting influence in government," created gangland and imperiled the peace of practically every community," Cox said that he remained opposed to the open saloon. He would vote for prohibition rather than for the return of saloons, he said.

Cox, however, agreed with Senator Simeon D. Fess, Republican national chairman, that prohibition is not the issue of the present campaign. He scored the Republican national administration for the new tariff act and charged that President Hoover could have prevented the stock market crash had he acted within his power to stop speculation. Election of a Democratic congress would be a signal for repeal of the Hawley-Smoot tariff, although farm rates would be retained, he said.

Cox charged the Cooper administration with failure to take steps to prevent such a disaster as the penitentiary fire in which 321 prisoners lost their lives.

COOPER ANSWERS CHARGE

Declares Precautionary Steps Taken Prior to Penitentiary Fire

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 21.—Governor Myers Y. Cooper, making his second plea for Cuyahoga county's support of his candidacy for a second term, last night denied the claims of George White, his Democratic opponent, that nothing had been done to prevent the penitentiary fire disaster.

Men were working on new additions inside the penitentiary when the fire occurred, the governor asserted. "For seven months we had been going ahead with the improvements, planning others. We were going to re-roof all the penitentiary buildings before the fire."

"We have proceeded with great definiteness to relieve overcrowded conditions in our prisons and hospitals, and don't let anyone tell you differently. We have done things that could and should have been done 20 years ago."

McCulloch Declares for High Standard of American Living.

By The Associated Press

PORTSMOUTH, O., Oct. 21.—Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch brought his candidacy to succeed himself into this section of the state last night, hammering away on prohibition, the tariff and immigration.

"I would rather be defeated on a policy of a protective tariff, higher wages and a higher standard of living, than to win by trimming our tariff," he declared.

BREAK INTO CHURCH

Prowlers Force Locks on Oakland Evangelical Doors.

The Oakland Evangelical church was broken into Sunday or Monday night, it was discovered today.

This morning Fred Buckley, the church caretaker, found the locks on the primary department room and the supply room, laying on the floor and beside them a hammer which had been taken from a drawer in one of the rooms.

A check of all supplies, Sunday school material, pageant properties, etc., showed that nothing had been taken, and a pile of second-hand clothing collected in one of the rooms for distribution to the poor, had not been touched.

Rev. H. E. Williamson, pastor of the church, said that the marauders were apparently after money and falling to find any, had left the church without damaging any church property.

300 Farm Bureau Members from 8 Counties at Meeting

Session Here Launches State Drive for Members

Frank B. McMillin of Mt. Gilead, President of Ohio Chamber of Commerce; Murray D. Lincoln, Head of Ohio Farm Bureau Corp., Are Chief Speakers.

Two hundred persons from eight counties in this district heard the first of a series of meetings of the Farm Bureau in Hotel Harding here today.

McMillin was the keynote of the meeting and was pointed to by Farm Bureau speakers in speeches given around the theme of "Go Ahead."

The meeting in Marion was one of the kind in Ohio this week.

Speakers from the Farm Bureau, Ohio Chamber of Commerce, and Ohio State University will build the foundation for a statewide organization drive of the Farm Bureau soon. A goal of 10,000 new members has been fixed.

In an address in which he peered far into the future of rural organization, Murray D. Lincoln, general manager of the Ohio Farm Bureau Corporation, declared that cooperative organization for the farmer must exceed the state borders and expand into an interstate relationship of national scope.

The day when the farmers may own, finance and operate their own service agencies of all types—including electricity and farm commodities was forecast by Lincoln.

Drouth Causes Loss

"that it may take ten years to overcome the effect of present economic depression and low prices. It is estimated that the drouth will cut 1930 farm income to $240,000,000, or $140,000,000 less than normal. Taxes take 27 per cent of the farmer's net income.

"Nothing short of a nation-wide selling agency will be able to survive under present conditions," he asserted.

Standardization, good management, and intelligent cooperation he listed as essentials to success. Mr. Lincoln also discussed the importance of cooperative buying of farm supplies—feeds, fertilizers, and so on. He likewise stressed the necessity for a credit organization designed to meet the needs of agriculture. And he touched upon rural electrification as a vital point in equalization of rural life and industry.

"Individual success on the farm looks like a proposition of a survival of the fittest, among whom will be numbered those who understand their business, and who cooperate with their country, state and national agricultural organizations," Frank B. McMillin, of Mt. Gilead, president of the Ohio State

best agricultural student farmer, has come through the dry summer with flying colors.

He will be held up this year at the Arkansas state fair as a "model farmer" for students of agriculture.

CARDON is a firm believer in registered dairy cattle and in a balanced system of agriculture.

As a result he has provided feed for his cattle during the drouth and, unlike many farmers, he will not be forced to depend on commercial feed to keep them through winter months.

Patton will gather a fair cotton crop this fall, maintain his pasture lands and in addition will have steady revenue from his dairy and poultry products.

Speaking of surprises; here we learn by a

Perhaps no better light can be thrown upon other bit to indicate that a buyers' strike is still on with its consequent effect on business and employment.

A Chivalrous Flier.

"It was a pitiful sight to see Lieutenant Hill's machine smashed up and to see a gallant pilot lose all he had fought for so pluckily and had endured so much to attain. His flight was infinitely more difficult and therefore a finer achievement than mine."

So spoke Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith on his arrival at Port Darwin, Australia, completing a record-breaking flight from England to his homeland by which he cut the existing record of Bert Hinkler of fifteen and half days to nine days and twenty-three and a half hours.

"Smithy," as all Australia knows the famous airman, was flying homeward with the double purpose of breaking the record and marrying Miss Mary Powell, his actress-sweetheart who awaited him in Sydney, when, in seeking to land at Atambora, Island of Timor, he saw the plane of his rival in the race from England apparently wrecked a short distance from the airfield. The plane of Lieutenant Hill had caught on a wire fence as he attempted to take off and turned over, damaging its under carriage, breaking its propeller and smashing both wings.

The impossibility of repairing the broken machine with the means at hand being apparent, Kingsford-Smith suggested that he should abandon his own flight temporarily and go to Singapore, where he could arrange with engineers of the Royal Air Force to make the needed repairs. Lieutenant Hill would not countenance the suggestion, but, on the contrary, suggested that Kingsford-Smith should take his, Hill's, rubber boat for use in the event of accident which might result in plunging the wing commander into the shark-infested waters of Timor sea.

Kingsford-Smith was in command in the wonderful direct flight over the Pacific from Oakland, California, to Australia. Subsequently he flew to England, and then across the North Atlantic and on to California to complete the egreing of the globe. Now he has broken the England-to-Australia record. Today he stands out as a flier among fliers, but all his achievements in the air tell less of the man than his splendid act of chivalry in stopping and offering aid to a rival who had suffered misfortune and the manner in which he spoke of his rival's achievement.

The Kingsford-Smiths of the world keep alive one's confidence in mankind.

An Optimistic Grain Grower.

There is to be an early upward trend in the prices of all farm commodities.

Such was the substance of a statement made a day or two ago to President Hoover by the world's greatest grower of wheat, Thomas D.
Campbell, of Montana, who owns and successfully operates a 90,000-acre farm in that state and a 53,000-acre farm in North Carolina.

Campbell is also optimistic regarding business conditions generally, explaining that the time is near at hand when the country "must reverse itself and think positively, not negatively, about general business conditions."

When that time comes, he holds, the movement away from the business depression into which the country fell, or rather into which it worked itself, a year ago, will be speeded up markedly.

Campbell scolds the idea that any grain exported through Black sea ports by soviet Russia could, or can, affect American markets.

He has just returned from Russia, where he was engaged for several months in instructing
the Russians in the massed production of grain as planned by the soviet government, utilizing the methods employed by him on his two great farms. As the result of his experience and his investigation of grain conditions there, he expressed himself free to state that for every bushel of grain exported through Black sea ports, Russia will have to import flour and grain from this country and Canada.

"The people of the United States," he said,
"through misinformation and general economic depression have lost all balance in regard to our present grain position. The corn crop is 800,000,000 bushels short. The same drought has destroyed the hay and other food crops
making a total of 1,100,000,000 bushels shortage which can not be replaced until we have another year."

There's nothing particularly new about optimistic utterances by this greatest of all wheat farmers. He has made optimistic utterances before, and not without reason, for he has achieved great success in farming. His method is not unique. Others have followed it with success, although application of it, despite its simplicity, has not been common. His plan has been to go ahead and farm, and let the other fellow worry about what congress might,
or might not, do; to farm and let the other fellow do the figuring on what the farm "experts" would do in this case. Self-dependence has been his rule, and thus he has been prepared to meet conditions as they arose, and in optimism, rather than in depression, made the best of them.

It's just possible that Farmer Campbell's system of adapting his farming business—for farming is a business with him—year after year to conditions as he found them, might work out successfully in other lines of business endeavor—provided, of course, that the heads of such business enterprises as employed the system would give them the steadfast attention he has devoted to his business of growing grain and persevere in endeavors to improve conditions as they found them.

From Chicago comes a story of the sentencing of Harry Lee Watson, "gentleman bundler," to ten years in prison. It's hard to imagine to what the Chicago newspaper writers could resort to encourage crime more than they do by such designations of the city's criminals.

Regarding the Rohe Candidacy.

In all the history of the state, there probably never has been a time when the voters of Ohio had greater reason for giving thought to the membership of the general assembly than at present. Matters of importance so far beyond the ordinary—not the least of which will be a new taxation system proposal—are to come before it at the coming session that the utmost care should be exercised by voters to select for the personnel of the two bodies men alike of unquestioned ability and faithfulness to the best interests of the citizenship of the state.

It is this situation which causes this newspaper to commend to the voters of the Thirteenth-Thirtieth district the candidacy of Robert L. Rohe, the Tiffin publisher, who is a candidate to succeed himself in the senate.

Senator Rohe's legislative experience is not limited to service in the senate. He entered that body after having rendered in the house
splendid service alike to the people of his district and of the state as a whole. His experience in the two bodies, in both of which his ability has been frankly recognized regardless of party lines, has acquainted him with the state's problems and especially well fitted him to serve the people of Ohio wisely and well. Senator Rohe has more than legislative fitness and ability. He has the esteem and confidence of his fellow-legislators. They know him to be as clean, straight, honorable and dependable as a legislator as he is as a man and a citizen. They know that his support of a measure is due to his honest belief that it is worthy of support and that his opposition to a measure is the result of his conviction of its lack of worth. Thus his influence far transcends that which is his by reason of his individual vote on any proposed measure.

It is a privilege and a pleasure to commend the candidacy of such a man as this to the voters of the Thirteenth-Thirtieth senatorial district.

It has been determined that the Los Angeles explosion in which fifty-two persons were injured was caused by illuminating gas, which escaped from a three-quarter-inch valve, which was left wide open. This tells the force responsible for the explosion, but throws little light on the vital point—whether the explosion was the result of carelessness or of criminal intent.

Naval investigators have discovered that a second attempt has been made to put the battleship, Colorado, out of business by driving phonograph needles into the vessel's main control cables, the latter attempt having been made since the Colorado put into Brooklyn navy yard to undergo repairs, which will cost $200,000, to correct the damage done at the first attempt. While electrically-driven ships are not without some advantages, they at the same time are not without at least one marked weakness.

Editorial Opinion.

LAST OF THE BULL MOOSERS.

The recent arrangements made by Senator
H. Johnson, of California, to enter a San Francisco law firm occasioned surprise.

The branches of private legal business in which a federal lawmaker can safely engage are so few, as a senator from Kansas found some years ago, that neither a senator nor representative can make a very helpful partner in a firm of general practitioners.

That this arrangement is preliminary to resigning on January 1 the senatorial seat he was elected to two years ago to hold until 1935
is one of the interesting announcements made during the recess of congress. Grover L. Johnson, crusader against railroad participation in California politics at a time when it was active and undisguised, and also a useful congressman
during a brief term, was the father of Hiram W. Johnson. The son perpetuated some of the paternal ideas into a time when they had become more or less an anachronism and, in consequence, has had an unusual and one of the most tempestuous of public careers.

He was elected governor of California in 1910, being reelected in 1914, and was a logical nominee for vice president on the ticket with Theodore Roosevelt in 1912. While still governor he was a successful candidate for the federal senate in 1916, when Mr.
Hughes visited California in his campaign for president with Mr. Roosevelt's support. Things happened then that lost the state to Mr. Hughes and gave Mr. Wilson the vote without which he would not have been reelected.

He is the last of the Bull Moosers, for he was never more than nominally reconstructed and California has repeatedly shown its puri-tality for him, even when it also gave majorities for Republicans of more stalwart brand
when both were on the ticket.

The great tragedy of his life came in 1920 when, having been refused the first place, he disdainfully rejected the second place on the ticket with Mr. Harding, moved him with convictions. But for his plague his career would have duplicated at many points that of his Rooseveltian exemplar and on Mr. Harding's death, he, too, would have been enabled to mount to the presidency.

Two campaigns since have convinced him that he can count them in no other way and after 17 years years of senate insurgency, he has tried of lesser offices—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Rainproof Political Enthusiasm.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

The political game is still played enthusiastically. Last party could stage a campaign opening under such untoward conditions as greeted the opening of the Harrison and Tyler camps in Columbus February 22, 1930, and have its enthusiasm dampened so little!

It was one of those February thaws so well known in Ohio, accompanied by a cold, driving rain. It seems to have begun several days before the Columbus meeting—a fact that would naturally have been a deterrent to the visitors on that day when the state had no railroads and few good roads. Let the reporter for the Ohio State Journal of that day
describe the scene:

"The rain is pouring in torrents while we write; the mud is knee deep in the roads; all the wintry elements except frost are busy, and still people are here. The streets of Columbus, despite the elements, are one solid mass
of animated, joyous Republicans, all clamorous
for the hero of Tiptonville and the Thames."

"We watched the ingathering of the people on Thursday and Friday with a view to describing it. We can not describe it. From the east, west, north, south the people poured in dense, continuous streams. On they came, rending the blue welkin with their shouts."

"Banners, ingenious in device and splendid in execution, loomed in the air, flags were streaming and all the insignia of freedom swept along in glory and triumph. Canoes, planted on wheels, square-rigged brigs, log cabins—even a miniature Old Fort Meigs; all these and more made up the grand scene of excitement and surprise."

The same writer stated that the number of persons was variously estimated at from twelve to twenty thousand.

Sweets and the Child.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

With our present-day knowledge of nutrition,
we must take great care in providing the proper combination of food. We must do this to give our children the best nutrition possible.
Among our faulty practices is the tendency of including too much sweet in the diet.

Sugar is an important element in some of the best of our natural foods. It is always found in fruits. Except in honey, it is rarely found without being combined with certain salts and fibre. To get its benefits the foods must be carefully chewed and properly mixed with saliva.

Then it is ready for the gastric juices.

All persons crave sweets, especially the children. This is well, because a moderate use of sugar is necessary to meet the demands of the active youngsters. They need the carbohydrates, which are the sugars and starches,
to make energy.

There is no doubt that many young children are given too much sugar. In the past many baby food formulas were used which contained too much sugar, more than is found in mother's milk. By overfeeding sweets there is danger that a child's taste may become perverted. Then he will crave more and more sugar.

There are many-sided foods and the one-sided food. The many-sided, "protective" foods include cereals, breadstuffs, meat, milk, fruits and vegetables. All these contain the life-giving elements, and when properly combined,
they make an ideal diet for the growing child.
as well as for the adult.

The one-sided food, such as sugar, is all right in its place and in proper quantity, but it must not be taken to the exclusion of the important protective foods. If taken in reasonable quantities, and after the nourishing foods have been eaten, they are good for you and your child.

To be perfectly straightforward on the subject, white sugar can only be classed as a one-sided food. It is deficient in the necessary proteins, minerals and vitamins which we must have in the diet if we are to have good health.
If sugar is taken in the form of candy, or any concentrated form, and used to excess it may prove troublesome.

When a child is given too many sweets, such as candy, jam or chocolate, they interfere with the formation and composition of the saliva.
It lessens the power to digest starchy foods. A diet of this sort spoils the appetite for foods which are far more important to growth and development.

Many of the thousands of cases of dental defects and serious digestive disorders date from the time when the infant was persistently given too much sugar at feeding time. Don't make the mistake of giving in to your child every time he cries for candy and sweets. Keep for his dessert at luncheon or dinner some sweet,
as maple syrup, honey or brown sugar, applied on the pudding, but curtail the candy and jam. Teach your child the right habits of eating from the earliest possible moment. That is the way to build for health.

The City of Cairo.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

If you are looking for a place where all you have to do to amuse yourself is to sit on the terrace of any one of the big hotels and watch the world go by, don't fail to visit Cairo.
Aside from the fact that it is the largest city
in Africa—the population is in excess of half a million—it is undeniably the most fascinating
city in the world, as well as the most varied.

As a rule, the visitor makes a bee-line for the famed bazaars with their displays of Oriental merchandise. Buying in the bazaars is a new experience for the American, too. There is no haste; no high-pressure salesmanship which urges one to buy and begone. The whole business is done in a leisurely manner,
and it is a hardy shopper who comes away
empty-handed.

There is always a preface to the business of buying and selling in the bazaars. The first thing the merchant does is to offer coffee and cigarettes, even before the customer has a chance to state his or her wants. That puts things on a friendly basis at once. It is undoubtedly true that the keepers of the bazaars invariably ask more for their wares than they expect to get and Americans are frequently warned about this and frequently go to the other extreme in making their offers. That is bad; do not offer a sum which you know is far below the real value of the goods because if you do not the merchant learns instantly that you do not know the value and a lot of trouble ensues.
Of course, the merchant expects to bargain.
he is disappointed if he does not have to—and in the end, rather than lose a sale he will be content with a five per cent. profit if you can hold out that long. And you will find him entirely familiar with American money values and able to speak understandable English.

Just one more thing to remember in dealing with the bazaars of Cairo. If you employ a third person to help you out there is a commission to be paid and that comes out of the pocket of the buyer, not of the seller, as is generally the case.

Cairo reeks with natives who will wish to act as your guide to the bazaars, but it is best to consult the hotel people before you employ one. And remember this: if you give even the slightest encouragement to one of the self-appointed guides in the streets you will have him on your hands for fair. The safest way to do is ignore them completely and do not under any circumstances ask questions. That, has been twisted into a contract more than once.
Dragomen, these guides are called, and they are a hard-boiled lot I can assure you. I remember seeing an English woman being pulled and hauled—literally—by three of them, each of whom claimed she had engaged him until a young British officer sent them on their way with a few choice words and much flourishing of his swagger stick.

WEST UNION, O., Oct. 21.—Officials of three southern Ohio counties today were watching for three bandits who last night escaped from Sheriff John E. Neu, of Brown county and a posse who engaged them in a pistol duel near Georgetown after a series of robberies here.

SCHOOL HEAD SHOWS NEED OF 3-MILL TAX

Vote for Levy Does Not Mean Higher Tax, Official Declares.

$150,000 is provided by the three-mill levy which is up for renewal, the city school superintendent said. "It is evident that the present school program could not possibly be continued if such a large amount is taken from its income," Bowman declared.

The present term of nine months of school, in other words, could not be carried on. The levy cannot be made by the city school board without authorization by the voters, according to Ohio law.

Used for Operation

The present school levy is 10.31 mills, or $10.31 of every taxable $1,000. Of this total amount 2.28 mills are levied for the retirement of bonds and the payment of interest on bonds. This leaves a total of 8.03 mills for meeting current expenses, and capital outlay charges of the schools, of which three mills have been voted by the people, according to figures in Bowman's files.

One point which all school officials emphasize is the fact that a renewal of the levy will not provide additional income for the schools but instead will merely continue the present income for operation. Money raised by this levy can be used for no other purpose than for meeting current expenses, Bowman said.

"The levy should not be confused with a bond issue and it in no way relates to the building program which was approved by the voters two years ago," Bowman pointed out. "If the levy is continued by the vote of the people it will mean that the total school taxes which are being paid during the school year will be continued for another five-year period, and there will be no increase in the school tax of any taxpayer."

TO MOVE EMPLOYEES OF SHOP IN BUCYRUS

New York Central Announces Plans To Close Unit Last of Month.

By International News Service
CLEVELAND, Oct. 21.—The locomotive repair shop of the New York Central Railroad Co. located at Bucyrus will be closed down Oct. 31, and a majority of the employees will be moved to the Collingwood shops in Cleveland, it was announced here today by Joseph Chidley, superintendent of motor power of the railroad.

Of the 242 men who are now employed at the Bucyrus shop, 166 will report for work at the Collingwood shops Nov. 5, according to Chidley. The remainder of the Bucyrus employees will be employed in the numerous roundhouses of the railroad in Ohio. Several will be retained at the Bucyrus New York Central roundhouse, Chidley stated.

The change of the location of the repair shop from Bucyrus to Collingwood was made because better facilities are available in the latter shop, according to the executive.

Officials of the railroad have not yet decided as to what use they will make of the building at Bucyrus in which the repair shop is now located.

CAPONE RIVAL TAKEN CAPTIVE

Moran Draws Gun as Raid Squad Appears, but Is Overpowered.

By International News Service
WAUKEGAN, Ill., Oct. 21.—A raiding squad of sheriff's deputies today captured George "Bugs" Moran, Chicago gang leader and enemy of Alphonse Capone, in a raid on a Cassidy's lake roadhouse 18 miles northwest of here.

Moran attempted to draw a revolver when the squad entered, but was disarmed before any shots were fired. Two guns were found in his room. The gang leader was charged with vagrancy and carrying concealed weapons and held here on $50,000 bonds in the Lake county jail. He will be questioned today by the state's attorney, it was announced.

Under Assumed Name

Detectives had trailed Moran to the roadhouse from Minn. Minn., where he had posed as O. G. Heitel, retired business man, while organizing an alleged liquor running ring in the neighborhood of Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Moran's seizure will reopen the investigation into the murder of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter. It was indicated.

Moran and the North Side gang under his control are believed to hold the key to the reporter's murder last June 9. Lingle, a Chicago gang affiliate, authorities said, he had failed to deliver protection to the minions of Morgan although he had received payment.

Want To Know About Zuta

The gang leader was to be questioned in the slaying of Jack Zuta, his erstwhile partner in Chicago gang affairs, authorities said.

The raiding squad seized Moran in a resort managed by Mrs. Elizabeth Cassidy, five miles south of Antioch, Ill.

Moran leaped from his bed in a back room of the resort, snatching a pistol from beneath his pillow. He was quickly disarmed.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily
Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle. Into a pint bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membrane. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even to severe bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

THE ROSE IN THE DARK

—BY—
ROY VICKERS

CHAPTER 15
Wealth Descends on Rose

MR. PERLE returned home early that afternoon. Bellamy, who took his hat at the door, informed him that Miss Constance was in her room, and had been moping all afternoon.

"Dear, dear! What a good thing that I was able to return earlier than usual," radiated Mr. Perle. "I think, Bellamy, that Miss Constance and I will take tea together in the study. Tell her I particularly request her company. And I think it is probable that we shall be dining out tonight. I must apologize to cook but the occasion was unforeseen."

While Rose in sulky submission, prepared to join her guardian, Mr. Perle stood by the study writing-table and smiled down at the leaflet which he had himself placed there more than a week ago. The leaflet announced that for all matters involving confidential inquiry it was advisable to go straight to Mr. Leckert, private detective. The leaflet looked somewhat thumbed.

As Rose's step sounded outside, Mr. Perle skipped away from the leaflet and became absorbed in a folio of engravings.

"Ah, my dear!" he exclaimed. "I trust that I do not interfere with your plans but I must have a little business talk with you and it seemed to me pleasant that it should take place here than at my office. You young ladies, I know, dislike the sight of lengthy tomes and long, narrow documents! So I allowed myself a half-holiday. He had taken care not to give the girl more than a fleeting glance as he spoke, but he was clearly aware that at mention of a "business talk," she had paled under her rouge and shot a frightened glance at the leaflet. As she came slowly up to him, he put aside the engravings and bowed to her.

"An extremely charming gown, if I may say so," he remarked. "Aha! I shall have to study the fashions if I am to hold my own amongst those who will pay you compliments in the day that are to come."

Rose, by now, was visibly trembling.

"I'm glad they're near enough at last for you to be able to prophesy even that much about them. I'm absolutely sick of them."

"Youth, youth!" interrupted Mr. Perle. "Here is our good Bellamy with the tea-wagon. Let us curb our impatience and refresh soul and body before we become dazzled by what is, after all, the sordid gleam of gold. What is it that the East says of gold?"

"I don't know," said Rose. As the door closed behind the parlor-maid she burst out with—"Look

Bargains for Banquets

Where popular demand reduces prices

"One policy of your company which gives me the greatest satisfaction," writes an A&P customer, "is that you do not take advantage of a special demand for a product to profiteer."

"For example, on the third of last July my A&P store sold good quality watermelons from 25c to 35c below other stores in town. A&P, realizing that many people enjoy a nice melon for Fourth of July picnics, put them within reach of everyone."

A&P believes in making it as easy as possible for people to get what they want when they want it most. That is why A&P provides special bargains in fruits and vegetables at the height of their season, in turkeys at Thanksgiving and Christmas, in delicacies during the Holidays, and in eggs at Easter.

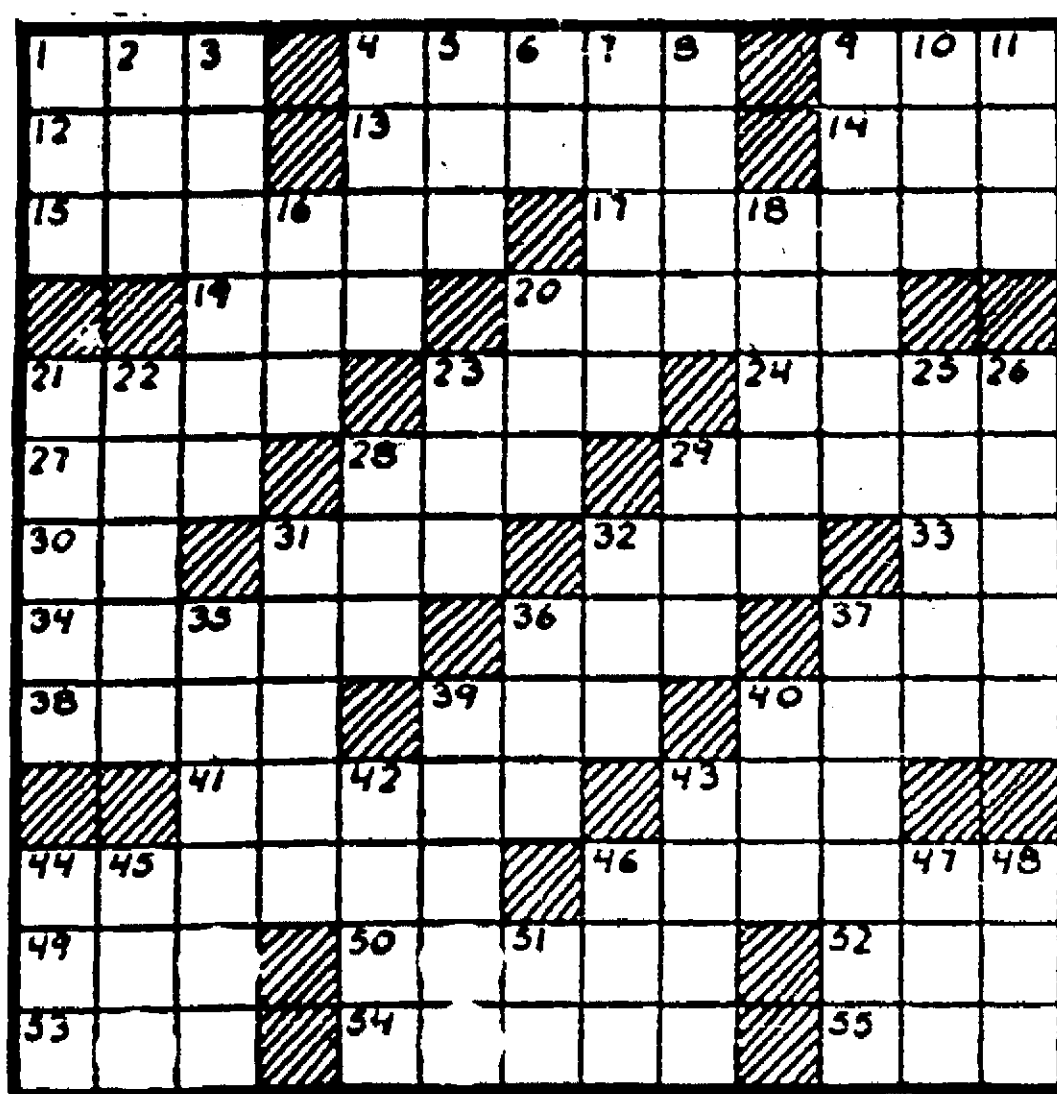

The usual custom is to charge a little more when people for one reason or another are pretty sure to buy anyhow. A&P thinks these are just the times to make the cost of high living as low as possible.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Bayhood Adventure

By JUD M. LEWIS

TUESDAY, and still raining. When I had let Jubilee down out of the window and had went down to get the pail and milk the cows my grandfather was in the kitchen with all his fishing tackle out and he was eating a slab of apple pie and drinking some milk, and he said he was going down to the breakwater and get a boat and water to the other side of the waterworks crib and catch all the fish there was in the lake.

I asked him why the fish always bit better in the rain, and he said it was just because of their mean dispositions. He said if they bit good in clearing weather people wouldn't get wet and get plumbago and eppisooty and everything. Fish are smarter than I thought they were. But if they were really smart they wouldn't bite at all, and if my grandfather was smart he wouldn't go out in the rain and get plumbago and eppisooty.

Love's Reawakening

The Story of a Wife's Triumph Over Jealousy

By AUDIE GARRISON

Veritzen Finally Shows Concern Over Noel's Condition.

I NEVER have been prouder of Dicky than I was when I finished telling him while Philip Veritzen listened, of the "talkie" role Colin Cameron had offered Mary, of Mr. Veritzen's comments upon it, and of my wish for his decision. He had listened with just the right amount of deferential interest and he had given me an infinitesimal wink when with one of our private little signals I had told him to be noncommittal as to his final decision. And his answer was so suave and so convincing that I do not believe even my employer's keen brain had any suspicion that he was talking against time, and that his decision as well as mine was already made.

"Of course, old chap," he began, with a comradely smile at Mr. Veritzen, "you can't blame me, as the young woman's uncle, for having as my first reaction, the thought 'If it isn't good enough for a potential Veritzen star, it isn't good enough for my niece, who is one no longer, only because of her refractory heart, not her deficiency in talent.'"

He waited for a second, to let that sink in, and I saw my employer's eyebrows contract ever so slightly, the first warning of annoyance which he gave me. "Dicky brings out Veritzen," on the other hand one must consider the tremendous advantage of the offer, and the fact that it is a most unusual one to be made to an inexperienced girl. It is not a matter one can decide at once. What is your reaction to it, dear?" He asked the question as though the fate of the world hung upon my answer.

"It really doesn't matter, does it?" I asked demurely. "You are Mary's guardian, and yours must be the final decision. Also, just at present, I am as much at sea as you are. It is so hard to decide."

"I do not know that you need to be reminded," Mr. Veritzen began frostily, "but I am more familiar with theatrical usage than you are, and an offer like that cannot wait, you know."

"How long did Cameron give Mary for decision?" Dicky turned to me.

"He didn't want to give her any time," I rejoined, "but he finally agreed to wait until day after tomorrow."

"That's time enough to put up a skyscraper," Dicky answered flippantly. "Suppose we table the question for the rest of this evening, and consider the buffet table instead. I'm nearly starved."

"You deserve never to eat again for a pun like that," I told him severely, and then I caught sight of Noel coming into the dining room and forgot everything else in my concern for him. He looked so frail stretched against the dark draperies of the doorway that I wondered how any father, even one as obsessed by a fantastic resentment as was Philip Veritzen, could fail to be moved by the sight.

"Ought Noel to have come down, Dicky?" I asked.

"Of course not," he answered promptly, "but I couldn't do anything with him. He said he didn't want to play the baby."

"What's the matter with him? The question came explosively from Philip Veritzen's lips. I was careful not to look directly at him, but a furtive glance showed me that his eyes were fixed upon his son with an expression in them compounded of anger and fear, with any other ingredients a question.

"He hasn't fully recovered yet from the attack Jack Lealle made upon him," I said and held my breath for his answer wondering at the instinct which made me use the word "made" instead of "instigated," thus giving the impression that Jack Lealle himself had attacked Noel, instead of delegating the job to a lesser ruffian.

But my vague instant was justified when Mr. Veritzen started violently, his police vanished utterly.

"Jack Lealle!" he cried. "Impossible!" Jack Lealle is—
He broke off abruptly, then finished too hastily and with too much emphasis: "thousands of miles away."

With my mental thermometer rapidly approaching fever heat, I wondered if Dicky's brain processes were traveling the same path as mine. But his answer gave me no clue.

"He is supposed to be, I grant you. We all have rested safely in the belief that he never would dare to come back to this country again. But I, myself, saw him on the street the other day, and the man who hit Noel, told him that the blow was with 'Mr. Lealle's compliments, and that there would be more of them.' He also staged an interview with Mary, didn't he, dear?"

I bit my lip to keep back a smile, despite the anger against Mr. Veritzen which his slip concerning Jack Lealle had engendered. Dicky is not the type of man who "dears" his wife in season and out of season, and his use of the conventionally caressing word, was, I knew, meant as a deliberate provocation to my rival.

"Yes, he did," I answered stantly. "He trailed her to Riverside park where she was strolling and threatened her with all sorts of penalties for herself and Noel if she didn't consent to pay him thirty-five dollars a week."

"The double-crossing little black-miller!" Philip Veritzen exclaimed, and I wondered if Dicky noticed as I did the significance of the adjective my employer had used.

[COOKING SCHOOL NOTE]

In the cooking school conducted under the auspices of The Star last week, Mrs. Emily M. Lutz stressed modern methods of cooking. Naturally, then, she uses and recommends Crisco, the modern shortening.

Date Sticks

good for youngsters

(Mixing time: 10 minutes)

One mother I know realizes that her children need sweets. So she provides home-made confections like these Date Sticks. Made after this tested Crisco recipe, they satisfy the craving for sweets in a wholesome way. As nearly as possible all of the fuss and bother have been kitchen-tested out of Crisco recipes and a satisfaction added—the satisfaction of using a modern shortening which lends its own fresh flavor to the foods made with it.

$\frac{1}{2}$  cup Crisco  $\frac{1}{2}$  cups flour
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup sugar 1 teaspoon salt
1 cup sour milk or 1 teaspoon baking powder
buttermilk 1 cup chopped nut meats $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon soda 1 cup cut dates
powdered sugar

Mix Crisco and sugar well. Add sour milk which has been mixed with soda. Then add flour which has been sifted with salt and baking powder, and fold in nuts and dates. Pour into shallow Criscoed pan and bake 30 minutes in moderate (350° F.) oven. Cut into narrow sticks while still warm and roll in powdered sugar. These cookies will take the place of less wholesome sweets for the children.

Fluffy? Yes, Crisco is now so fluffy you don't have to cream it.

MACHINE PEELS SPUDS, 'K. P.' LOSES OLD JOB

Peeling potatoes by hand has been found too costly and wasteful, so this machine skins 'em at a rate of 10 minutes to the 100-pound sack.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO—The World war veteran who did some of his campaigning against a stack of potatoes with a peeling knife as a weapon should see how they uncover the "spud" today. The machine age has relieved the "k. p." of his most obnoxious task.

An efficiency expert found that hand peeling was too costly so a machine now does the job. Each regiment of the Illinois national guard has a peeling machine.

The company "k. p.s." bring along their potatoes, dump them in the hopper, and carry them back to the cook shack—peeled.

Peeling "spuds," under the old regulation, generally was a punishment. Minor infractions of the military laws were given the task. Rookies, too, drew it. It was considered a discipline-promoter.

But too many potatoes were thrown away with the parings, or the parings were too thick—hence the machine.

The typical potato peeler skins 25 pounds in two minutes and disposes of a sack of 100 pounds in 10 minutes. It is frugal about the thickness of the peeling.

During a 15-day encampment it was estimated that the machines saved 10 tons, or 100 sacks of potatoes. Nine thousand men were fed daily at the camp.

The medley will open with a number that Blanche Ring made famous "I've Got Rings on My Fingers and Bells on My Toes." ## GIRL, 24, THRILLED BY NEW JOB AS SECRETARY OF STATE

By The Associated Press
BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 21.—The third highest office in the state of Louisiana is held by the lovely and charming 24-year-old Alice Lee Grosjean—formerly a secretary.

She was appointed secretary of state by Governor Huey P. Long, whom she had served six years as private secretary.

She would become governor should the governor and lieutenant governor be removed.

She becomes a member of the building committee of the new capitol and her name will be carved on the corner-stone.

She was thrilled by her appointment and her first day in office resembled more a debutante party than a public office.

HER friends poured in to congratulate her and she had a smile and handshake for all.

"I like it a lot," she said. She hastened to explain that she will not run for election when her appointment expires in 1937 but would go to Washington as the private secretary to Governor Long when he takes his oath as United States senator.

"We are not particularly interested in holding public office," she was asked.

"Oh, no, I prefer my politics from the side lines," she smiled. "I never dreamed I would ever be a state official. Of course, I have had aspirations. Every girl does, just like every boy hopes to be a president."

AT long when she became secretary to Long when he was a member of the Louisiana public service commission.

ANCIENT RIVALS TO RENEW FEUDS

HALF DOZEN BATTLES HEADLINE GRID CARD OF EASTERN SECTION

Dartmouth Battles Harvard; Princeton in Annual Feud with Middle Outfit.

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—A half dozen games, all of them renewals of ancient rivalries and some of them involving sectional title hopes, top the east's football program this Saturday.

Not even so important in inter-sectional contest as that between Pitt and Notre Dame at Pittsburgh can take away much interest from such duels as Yale-Army, Harvard-Dartmouth, Princeton-Navy, New York University-Fordham, Brown-Holy Cross and Lafayette-Washington & Jefferson.

Army's veteran line and youthful backfield will invade the Yale bowl in high hopes of avenging the 21-13 beating it took a year ago. These old rivals have played 29 football games since 1893 with Yale winning 18, and Army five, with six ties.

Football fans will have to go back even further to discover the first meeting between Harvard and Dartmouth. They inaugurated their series in 1882 and since then Harvard has won 27 games and Dartmouth seven with two ties. More to the point is the fact that high-powered Dartmouth eleven have won five of the last seven battles with the Crimson.

A somewhat similar situation prevails in the Princeton-Navy tangle. Princeton won all of the games played between 1892 and 1920 but since then the Midshipmen have held a decided edge.

The eleventh meeting between N. Y. U. and Fordham brings to close two undefeated and untied teams in a battle that may draw close to 60,000 spectators to the Yankee stadium. Of the 10 games played since 1904, Fordham has won six and N. Y. U. four. Lafayette and Washington & Jefferson will renew a bitter rivalry in an indoor night game at Atlantic City. Twelve times these teams have clashed since 1898 and the Presidents have won six games and Lafayette four with two ties.

The lineup following his excellent showing in the Findlay and Ashland games is to be kidnapped. He will deliver the phantom ball carrier act with a halfback post as his starting headquarters.

Someone has to be left out that started in the backfield against Findlay. Whether it will be Houseworth, Lindsey or Hunt remains a matter of guesswork. That, incidentally, is something I'm not doing just at present. If Houseworth is jolted out of his fullback post, he may find a position open on the line. He looks too good to stay on the bench for very much of the time. Hunt or Lindsey apparently are slated to take the sidelines at the start of the game but both will probably play a good share of the game.

Lindsay right now seems to have the inside track on the job although he may have to improve some to be certain of his post. Boyer isn't naming his starting lineup on what his players did last week. They'll have to battle it out for positions on the practice field this week. Which is undoubtedly a good thing. If they were named for what they did against Findlay, we well didn't I say that Harding had a chance to win a game this week?

Did you ever stop to think how fine it is to be able to have money at your finger tips.

A Local Man of Note

JOE RINNERT - GUARD

SOME men are good football players; some men are good scholars; some men are a combination of the two, but not many. Joseph P. (Joe) Rinnert of Ohio Wesleyan, a graduate of Marion Harding High school, is one of the exceptions that provide a rare combination of grid ability and scholastic achievement.

Joe is one of the outstanding members of Ohio Wesleyan's football team, having held down a guard position for three years. Not content with winning a varsity letter for grid prowess he has been active in nearly everything that has been going on in the Delaware campus.

Debate, oratory, campus politics and several other details including being president of his fraternity for two years have all come in for a share of his time. Now to top it off he has been named one of the six Wesleyan students for membership in Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity. He has already been approved by the faculty of the school as a candidate for the Rhodes scholarship. What will be next?

INFILDED - CRIPPLED

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—The Los Angeles Angels will go into the coast playoff series here tomorrow against the Hollywood stars with a crippled infield. Frank Signatos, hard-hitting second baseman, was said today by trainers to be suffering water on the knee and definitely out of the series. Fred Haney, clouting third baseman, pulled a tendon in his leg and may not play.

Johnny Knapp, captain of Geneva college, is called one of the country's greatest halfbacks, kept in obscurity only because he is with a small school.

PUG RESTS AFTER "LIGHT WORKOUT"

By The Associated Press
INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 21.—Charles (Chuck) Wiggins, local heavyweight boxer whose pugilistic ability has brought him fame and at times, misfortune, sat in solitary confinement in the city jail today as the result of "a little training."

He was arrested late last night after he was alleged to have "cleaned out" a restaurant, chasing patrons into the street. Police said he gave them no trouble, although on a previous occasion he soundly drubbed three officers who attempted to arrest him in a northside hotel lobby.

"Just getting a little training, that's all," Wiggins remarked as he climbed into the patrol wagon. After he had fought three prisoners in the city jail, he was removed to solitary confinement.

"PRAYING COLONELS" MEET NORTHWESTERN

Kentucky Team May Provide Stiff Workout for Big Ten Favorites.

By The Associated Press
DANVILLE, Ky., Oct. 21.—Centre college's "Praying Colonels" of 1930, probably the institution's best football aggregation since the famed "under ten" of a decade ago that defeated Harvard, are expected to prove worthy opponents this week-end to Northwestern university's Wildcats, rated among the best in this year's Big Ten campaign.

The Colonels have lost one game this year to the University of Tennessee 18 to 0, but have won three. They moved out the University of Chattanooga, former Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association champions, defeated the previously unbeaten Xavier university by a touchdown, trounced Western Kentucky Teachers college 31 to 0, and are undefeated in the S. I. A. A. this year. Tennessee is in the Southern conference.

Centre had had lean football years since Bo McMillin, Red Roberts, et al., placed them in the forefront of national competition in their hey-day. But this year Coach Ed Hanley, former Centre star, has developed a fast, scrappy outfit.

YANKS GET SHORTSTOP

By The Associated Press
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—Acquisition of two right handed pitchers from the New York Yankees, in connection with the deal that will send Frankie Crosetti, Seal shortstop, to the Yanks, in 1932, was announced today by Secretary George A. Putnam, of the San Francisco club. The twisters are Bill Henderson, who finished the season with Oakland, and Sam Gibson, who played with Toronto of the International.

J. H. Kinghorn and J. B. Kinghorn, twins who scale 155 pounds each, are halfback candidates at Clemson.

MICHIGAN UNCOVERS GOOD QUARTERBACK

Work of Newman Keeps Michigan in Title Race; Kipke Fights Overconfidence.

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Up to Ann Arbor, Mich., they are beginning to talk about "another Bennie Friedman," when they speak of young Harry Newman, Michigan's quarterback.

Newman, whose sensational work against Purdue and Ohio State, has been largely responsible for keeping the Wolverines in the Big Ten championship struggle, may not be another Friedman, but his play bears the Friedman influence.

After Newman was graduated from Detroit Northern High, he spent a summer in a camp in which Friedman was a counselor. Newman asked and received a lot of instruction in the art of forward passing, of which Friedman is master, and the youngster's showing against Ohio State last week when he tossed two passes for eventual touchdown, was a big reward for his hours of practice.

Coach Harry Kipke of the Wolverines, is battling against overconfidence among his men. Their victory over State, and the beating the Illini took from Northwestern, has made the Wolverines feel that Saturday's game will be a romp.

Coach Bob Zuppke made some changes in his Illinois backfield yesterday. Yanuskus was left at halfback, but with Gil Berry injured, the other post went to Hunter Russell, an end. Captain Olaf Robinson was shifted from full to quarterback, and Art Sutton, reserve back, went to Robinson's station.

Purdue and Wisconsin, which tangle in the other Big Ten championship game Saturday, got down to business immediately. Coach Noble Kizer of the Boilermakers discovered that Alex Yunevitch, goof fullback, will be out of the game because of a shoulder injury, and Horstman was given the job. The Badgers were given new plays yesterday, and Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite indicated the Boilermakers would see some passes, along with the powerful Wisconsin running game.

Work in the other camps was light. Notre Dame's regulars were given a day off, as were Northwestern's first stringers. Indiana, which goes to Dallas, Tex., to meet Southern Methodist Saturday, drilled indoors to become accustomed to the heat. Minnesota, Ohio State and Iowa, which have open dates this week, listened to lectures.

Bucks Prepare To Turn Back Wisconsin Invasion

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 21.—Coach Sam Williamson and his sardened Buckeyes made preparations for the last half of the 1930 football schedule today, although Ohio State will be idle this Saturday.

It may be good for all parties concerned that the Scarlet team does not see action this week. The injured players will have ample time to recover from their hurts and bruises, and there will be two weeks in which to prepare for the homecoming game with Wisconsin.

A lot can be done in two weeks. Besides giving William many sleepless nights, these two weeks will afford an opportunity to form a backfield that has scoring punch. That's what was lacking in the Michigan game. It was bitter pill to swallow, that 13-to-0 defeat at the hands of Ohio's most traditional rival, Michigan.

The Buckeyes had a half dozen chances to score but they missed. They could carry the ball to the 20-yard line but from then on it seemed like forbidden ground to the ball-carriers.

The same trouble cropped up in the Northwestern game. It was thought that this fatal difficulty would be overcome before the encounters with the Wolverines. It wasn't.

Wisconsin, with two impressive victories over important opponents will be a serious hurdle for the Buckeyes to jump. The Badgers displayed a perfect aerial attack against Pennsylvania. An aerial defense cost Ohio State the Michigan game and possibly the Wildcat title.

It may be possible that Williamson will change quarterbacks before the Wisconsin game. Hinchman's selection of plays in several spots of the game last Saturday may be the reason. Dave Chizek, at triple-threat sophomore, appeared good during his few minutes as field general and signal-barker. His passing was a feature of the game but he was not afforded the opportunity to show his stuff.

Ohio State's running attack is regarded as one of the best in recent years—since 1926, possibly. Coach Harry Kipke made a remark to this effect following the game Saturday. The trouble, it is agreed, lies in Ohio's failure to score after the ball is carried within the scoring zone.

WESLEYAN STRESSES AERIAL ATTACK FOR SIMPSON ENCOUNTER

Gauthier Satisfied with Showing of Bishops in Game with Cincinnati.

DELAWARE, Oct. 21.—Drill on forward pass plays was resumed by Ohio Wesleyan's football squad this week at the very point at which it was stopped last Friday. The Bishops completed only three out of 10 passes attempted against Cincinnati Saturday and Coach George Gauthier intends to keep them at it until they develop a real aerial attack.

Ohio Wesleyan backs will be drilled in running behind interference this week in preparation for their game with Simpson college's veteran team which will invade Selby stadium this week-end. Several Bishop ball-carriers have had difficulty in using their interference properly and Roderick Campbell, Elmira, N. Y., and Eric Gandrup, Rocky River, are to receive special attention.

Coach Gauthier was well pleased with the improvement which his team showed against Cincinnati and may not drive the squad so hard this week, although he regards the Simpson eleven as a formidable foe. The Bishops came through their game with Cincinnati without injuries and should be in top condition to meet Coach Hoge Workman's proteges this week-end.

port that completes a good-work ing passing offense.

Chizek earned a reputation as the best passer on the team. He made four first downs against the Wolverines via the air, despite the obviousness of the plays and the offense with which Michigan bucked them.

Professionals Sway Stock Market by Sudden Jumps to Selling Side.

By International News Service
NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—After a few opening, in which new gains of a point or more were recorded by the speculative favorites, stocks slipped off easily under the influence of a flood of profit taking and a few days' past travelers were forced to sell to a point before the end of the first hour, with all sections of the market participating in the reaction.

There was little, if any, change in business and industrial reports and the commodity markets were generally steady. The stock market was swayed mostly by the activities of the professionals, the most nimble of whom were ready to jump to the selling side of the market in order to convert paper profits into cash.

Westinghouse dropped off 5 points to 107½ in this profit-taking move. United States Steel reacted 2 points to 147½, while General Electric, Consolidated Gas and other favorites were off 1 to 2½ points. American Can lost 2½ points at 114½ and Eastman Kodak was down 6 at 186. The day started the day at higher levels, but there was not sufficient buying demand to keep the rally in progress.

Business and irregularity ruled in the second hour, most of the favorites settling down to lower levels in a reduced volume of trading. Westinghouse was under pressure when the third quarterly statement showed only $1.25 cents less than the previous year's earnings. Copper sold at the year's lowest price at 33½.

Sharp Advances in Liverpool Quotations Force Chicago Prices Higher.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Influenced by unlooked for sharp advances in Liverpool wheat quotations, all grain values here went higher early today. Statements credited to Chairman Leggo of the Federal Farm board that agricultural commodity prices had reached bottom, attracted much notice and so like-wise did Liverpool reports that Russian offerings of wheat abroad were fewer and at higher prices. Opening 14½¢ up, Chicago wheat future delivery contracts held near after to the initial range. Corn started unchanged to 14¢ rise, and subsequently continued firm.

Upturns today of Chicago prices carried wheat to the highest point reached in the last 10 days. Winnipeg reports that overnight export business here amounted to 1,250,000 bushels helped to strengthen the market here. Meanwhile, considerable interest was shown in assertions that asking prices on Russian wheat at Liverpool had been increased as much as 18¢ a bushel, and that chartering for late Russian shipments had stopped.

Ready absorption of future delivery offerings of wheat in Chicago kept the market pointing steadily upward. Much of the time after the initial advance. Corn and oats prices sympathized with wheat strength, the feed grains responding also to persistent unfavorable husking returns. Some Illinois reports said corn was yielding about five bushels an acre less than figures generally had expected.

Provisions mounted with cereals, despite a notable setback in hog values.
